NEW-YORK, Sept. 25.

LATEST LONDON NEWS.

Last evening arrived at this port the ship Oliver-Ellsworth, capt. Sketchley, in forty-two days from Liverpool, which port she left on the 15th of August.

Capt. S. has furnished the editor of the Mercantile Advertiser with London papers and Lloyd's Lists, to the evening of the 10th of August inclusive, (3 days later than our former advices from England.)

Our London paper of the 10th states that no intelligence had been received of the surrender of Flushing; nor do our papers contain any account of any late battles in Spain.

The following articles are all we find in our London papers worth extracting:—

LONDON, August 9.

No official accounts have been received from the island of Walcheren since Sunday. But despatches announcing the surrender of Flushing are hourly expected. It appears, however from some private letters, that the commander in chief was resolved not to delay the execution of the other points of his plan until the fall of that place. Part of the force which had not debarked on the 2d, but remained at anchor in the Veer Gat, has proceeded up the east Scheldt. Should our armament thus divided in the two branches of this river, overcome all intermediate obstacles, it will unite before Antwerp in an attack upon that city. Antwerp is considered to be very strong, and the port contains at present a great number of men of war, including several sail of the line. If Flushing has been able to hold out a few days, we may expect a very formidable resistance at Antwerp, for the defence of which we may presume the enemy has made every possible preparation.

August 10.

We have received Paris papers to the 31st ult. containing the 29th bulletin of the French army in Germany. It is dated Vienna, July 22, at which time Bonaparte was in that city or its environs at Schoenbrunn. The report in the German papers of his having set out on the 15th on his return to Paris, is thus officially contradicted, nor is that event likely soon to take place; if, as appears from the French papers, he means to defer his departure until the final settlement of a treaty of peace between him and the emperor of Austria.

The Austrian official account of the battle of Wagram has at length made its appearance; and is stated in articles from Dresden to be conformable in the most essential points with the French Bulletins. We are sorry to find that the archduke Charles and prince John of Lichtenstein were both wounded. It concludes thus:—

"The Austrian army has sustained a vast loss. It is deprived by the death of gen. Normann, of an officer of the most distinguished merit. No hopes are entertained of the recovery of generals Vecsay, d'Aspre, and Vukassovich. Among the generals less dangerously wounded are, the prince of Hesse-Hombourg, generals Stutterheim and Parr, and his imperial highness the archduke Charles, who, with the prince of Lichtenstein, received musket wounds, which will not, however, be attended with any serious consequences."

The Paris papers contain intelligence from Madrid of so recent a date as the 20th ult. at which date it does not appear that Joseph Bonaparte entertained any apprehensions of being forced to evacuate the capital.

According to the most recent accounts, public and private, from Spain, it appears that Victor and Sebastiani have united their forces near Toledo, where they will probably make a stand. Their amount is variously stated, between 35,000 and 36,000 men. The combined British and Spanish armies are estimated at 104,000, exclusive of 8000 from Portugal, and an English regiment on its march from Gibraltar, expected to join sir Arthur Wellesley. It was marching for Madrid in three divisions as follows:—The left, consisting of 26,000, including 3000 cavalry, under sir A. Wellesley, north of the Tagus; the centre, consisting of 52,000, including 12,000 cavalry, under Cuesta, along the Tagus; and the right, amounting to 26,000, under Venegas, along the south of the Tagus, through the mountains of Toledo.

No accounts had been received from the Scheldt, when this paper was put to press, but as the wind had shifted to the eastward, advices may be hourly expected. Several vessels, principally victualling transports, sailed yesterday, to join the expedition.

Sir Sidney Smith arrived yesterday at Portsmouth, from the Brazils, in the Diana frigate, after a passage of 11 weeks.

TWENTY-NINTH BULLETIN.

VIENNA, July 22.

Generals Duromel and Fowlers have returned to the head quarters. All our surmises with respect to the fate of the former have proved erroneous. He was not wounded, and had no horse killed under him, but as he was coming back from carrying to the duke of Montebello the order for concentrating his movement, on account of the destruction of the bridges, on the 22d May, he crossed a hollow where he found 25 hussars, whom he fancied formed one of our outposts. He did not perceive they were Austrians, until he had made them their prisoner. As we had been so long without hearing from him, as well as from other probable reasons, we thought he had been killed.

The gen. of division Regnier, has taken the command of the Saxons, and occupied Presburg.

Marshal MacDonald is gone to take possession of the citadel of Gratz, which it is expected he will enter to day.

The marshal duke of Ragua encamped with his army on the heights of Krems.

His imperial majesty passes his guards in review every morning. The velices and foot grenadiers of the Italian guard are remarkable for their excellent order.

Prince John de Lichtenstein, on his return from Buda, was presented on the 18th instant to his imperial majesty. He was bearer of a letter from the emperor of Austria.

Count Bubna, major general and aid de-camp to the emperor of Austria, has dined several times with count Champagny.

The commercial boats which the events of the war have scattered in various directions, have been collected and repaired on the banks of the Danube. They come every day laden with wood, vegetables, corn, and flour.

Our whole army is encamped.

By a decree dated from the imperial camp at Schoenbrunn, July 18th, his majesty has named colonels Duperron, of the 113th regiment of Vistula, Daigremont, of the 13th regiment of cuirassiers, Saint Cyr Nogues, chief of the staff of the third corps of the army in Spain; Haxo, commandant of the engineers belonging to the same corps—Devaliens, of the fourth regiment of hussars, and Meyer, aid-de-camp to general Suchet, officers of the Legion of Honor; and lieutenants Feucheres, Deslonibes, and Ricoux, privates of the Legion of Honor.

By the same decree, the emperor has ordered the distribution of ninety seven decorations of the Legion of Honor among the regiments belonging to the third corps of the army of Spain, which distinguished themselves most in the battles of Saragossa and Belchite.

VIENNA, July 15.

It is stated that the French and Austrian plenipotentiaries, who are to conclude and sign a treaty of peace, will meet at Brunn; and general count Andreossi, and prince Lichtenstein, are pointed out as the persons entrusted with that important mission. Nothing has yet transpired of the negotiations which have already taken place. It is only remarked, that the greatest activity prevails in the office of count Champagny, minister for foreign affairs. His excellency repairs every day to Schoenbrunn, and spends several hours with his imperial majesty.

Many promotions have taken place in the army. We are told that his majesty has presented the cross of the Legion of Honor to general Narbonne, governor of Raab.

General Marthieu Dumas fills the office of chief of the army under the command of major general the prince of Neufchatel.

Three days after the battle of Wagram, the following order of the day was published:

HEAD-QUARTERS,

Wolkersdorf, July 9.

"the day of Enzersdorf, and the decisive battle of Wagram, have crowned with success the most glorious for our armies the great enterprise which their toils and preceding battles had prepared. The enemy has lost an immense number of standards, 60 pieces of cannon, and 25,000 prisoners. The field of action is covered with his dead, and all the neighboring villages are filled with his wounded.

"His imperial majesty expressed his approbation of the conduct of the whole army. "the artillery, by their vigorous attacks, the engineers, pioneers and sailors, as well by the rapidity with which they fixed the bridges under the fire of the enemy, as by the immense labors through which, in a few days, they have secured the passage of the army over the last arm of the Danube and the islands, raised entrenchments, and opened roads for our troops, have greatly contributed to the fortunate results of the battles of Enzersdorf and Wagram. The emperor also expresses his particular approbation of their conduct.

(Signed)

ALEXANDER, Major Gen."

July 13.

At the present moment when part of the army goes into cantonment, and the other is about to encamp, it is thought proper to give as much publicity as possible to the following order of the day, dated from the Imperial head quarters at Wolkersdorf:—

"The approach of the harvest and the necessity of renewing our resources, require that the greatest attention should be paid to the preservation of the ripened corn, and that proper measures be taken to secure its produce. A rigorous observance of the regulation of the 8th of June is alone able to protect the persons of the inhabitants of the country. The severe examples which have been made, and even the last acts of mercy of the emperor, have revealed to the army his first intention of putting an end to devastation of the most critical and dangerous nature which have taken place. The marshals and generals in chief shall once more prohibit the foraging in the fields where the corn is ripe. They shall take care that no village or field be set on fire. They shall recall to their habitations, and take under their protection, the country people who cannot cease to fear, and resume all their useful labors, until all the soldiers of the army, no longer blind to their own interest, shall observe the strictest discipline, and succeed by their conduct to inspire every husbandman with confidence.

"ALEXANDER,

"Prince of Neufchatel."

The division of the army commanded by the duke of Ragusa shall, in future, be denominated the 11th corps, that of marshal Oudinot continues to be called the second corps, as it was whilst under the command of the late duke of Montebello.

July 17.

The emperor visited yesterday the field of battle of Wagram. His majesty was struck with grief at the deplorable state to which the fire of both armies has reduced the neighboring villages; and, it is said, ordered every possible assistance to be afforded to their inhabitants. A new demand has been made for lint and rags to the citizens of Vienna. Too many praises cannot be bestowed on the ladies of that city, for their zeal and humanity in obeying, and even anticipating the injunctions of government, for the relief of the wounded.

The greatest part of the army is about to encamp, and they already begin to build barracks for the imperial guard. The negotiations proceed, and the little information that transpires, although by no means authentic, is sufficient to dispel every apprehension of the renewal of hostilities. Many necessary and considerable sacrifices, on the part of Austria, are mentioned; but they are the price of peace, which can only be obtained and secured through them. It is also stated that the emperor Francis agrees to send 60,000 men to join the French army in an expedition against Turkey; but this is merely a rumor, which wants confirmation.

PARIS, July 29.

The prince of Ponte Corvo arrived here two days ago.

In conformity to the orders contained in the letter of his majesty the emperor and king, dated July 16, from his imperial camp at Znaim in Moravia, and addressed to the Israelitish consistory at Paris, by his excellency the minister for Divine Worship, on Sunday next, the 30th inst. prayers and thanksgivings will be afforded to the most high, in the Jewish temple of the street St. Avoile, for the victories of Ehersdorf and Wagram, in which the God of armies has so evidently fought with the warrior of France.

July 30.

His majesty has revived the decree of Sept. 16, 1808, relative to colonial produce coming through Holland, and which had been annulled by the decree of the 11th June last. No colonial produce coming through Holland shall therefore be admitted on the territory of the French empire, whatever be the mode of its importation or the quantities with which it is attended.

GAZETTE, July 22. His majesty has organized by a late decree, a battalion of national guards, composed of eight companies, one of which is to consist of grenadiers, and another of chasseurs, containing each of 154 effective men, officers included.

DOVER, August 7.

Yesterday about seven o'clock in the evening, a privateer was seen to carry off a very fine ship under American colors, which was going at the bark of the Goodwin Sands; another ship at the same time for the Downs; a ketch was also in company, but it coming dark we lost sight of her: no cruisers were to be seen.

AUGSBURG, July 20.

Certain intelligence has reached us, after the departure of the duke of Regensburg, the Austrians almost instantly again took possession of a part of Lower Silesia; but the province will, by virtue of the armistice of Znaim, be shortly given up to the French troops. It essentially contributes, at the present moment, by its fertility, to the supply of Lower Austria and particularly of Vienna, with provisions. Gratz, the capital, is one of the most important towns belonging to the Austrian monarchy. Marshal MacDonald's corps has been ordered to take up cantonments in the province.

MUNICH, July 22.

Although the Austrian major Leimer, who commands the insurgents of the Tyrol, was informed of the armistice of Znaim, he held on the 17th the audacity to make a general attack upon the positions of the Bavarian gen. Count d'Arco. He gained and kept possession for an hour of the town of Murnau, but was at length defeated and driven into the mountains with considerable loss.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.

Richard Soderstrom, his Swedish majesty's commercial agent general, to the United States, gives notice, that it is necessary for vessels bound to Swedish ports, in Europe, and up the Baltic, to have bills of health from the Swedish consulates in the United States; and also consular certificates, authenticating the proof of property for vessels and cargoes, bound to the island of St. Bartholomews, to ensure them a free admittance into said island.

LANCASTER, (Pa.) Sept. 19.

CORN.—We have already had several slight frosts. In some places the corn has been injured; and a single sharp frost would be highly destructive. As this is to be feared, our main object should be to dry and ripen the corn with all expedition, by cutting off the tops, and exposing the ears to the sun and air by which they will harden in a few days, and be safe from injury.

EXTRACT.

The tops and blades of corn make the best of fodder for cattle, and particularly for horses. They purify the blood, prevent humors of the eyes, are a sovereign antidote against the hives, and a preventive of the yellow water. If carefully dried and packed in sheaves, and a very little salt scattered among them, they may be preserved a whole year.

In these hard times, a prudent farmer should let nothing be wasted, more particularly so valuable a fodder as corn blades and tops.

REMARKS ON THE TWO LAST BATTLES OF THE DANUBE.

We have at last an official Austrian account of the battles on the Danube, of the 5th and 6th of July, as published by the Austrian ambassador at Berlin, on the 18th of that month. The narrative is plain and intelligible, and contains nothing of the Aurant and bombast. It states that the Austrian army was posted on the heights behind the Russbach, with its centre at the village of Wagram. The Russbach is a small river, on the north side of the Danube, and runs somewhat parallel with it, at about 4 or 5 miles distance, and opposite to Vienna and the island of Lobau, where the French army crossed the Danube.

The Austrian bulletin mentions, that about midday on the 5th all the points of the Austrian line were attacked in the most furious manner, the principal efforts having been made against the centre, in order to penetrate it; but although supported by batteries of heavy cannon, the attacks proved fruitless. The whole line maintained its positions, and made a great number of prithe mode of its importation or the certificates with which it is attended.

REMARKS ON THE TWO LAST BATTLES OF THE DANUBE.
We have at last an official Austrian account of the battles on the Danube, of the 5th and 6th of July, as published by the Austrian ambassador at Berlin, on the 18th of that month. The narrative is plain and intelligible, and contains nothing of the French and bombast. It states that the Austrian army was posted on the heights behind the Russbach, with its centre at the village of Agram. The Russbach is a small river, running north side of the Danube, and runs somewhat parallel with it, at about 4 or 5 miles distance, and opposite to Vienna and the island of Lobau, where the French army crossed the Danube. The Austrian bulletin mentions, that about midday on the 5th all the points of the Austrian line were attacked in the most furious manner, the principal efforts having been made against the centre, in order to penetrate it; but although supported by batteries of heavy cannon, the attacks proved useless. The whole line maintained its positions, and made a great number of prisoners, and at 10 at night the firing ceased. It says nothing of redoubts or advanced posts; they were no doubt taken or driven in early.

At 4 o'clock on the second day (the 6th) the French renewed the attack with great fury, and when the centre right wing of the Austrians had gained such advantages, as to promise a complete victory, the enemy with fresh divisions and a superiority in number, suddenly forced the left wing near Neudittel, and compelled it to fall back.

The bulletin concludes with saying, that as one wing of the army was threatened, prince Charles tho't it right to order a retreat in order to take a new position, and to cover the communication with Bohemia. The retreat was accomplished in the best order, and without any remarkable loss. It is stated that the loss of the French on the left wing, and in their centre was very great; and that the Austrians made 6000 prisoners, also 12 pieces of cannon with ammunition; neither was there any pursuit. The French bulletin confirms the latter, for the army did not advance until the next morning; it also states "that their left wing was surrounded "at 300 toises." The French writer appeared to study ambiguity. Upon the whole, we may fairly conclude that both armies were much disabled and their losses may probably have been nearly equal. As to their making a peace without more fighting, it appears unlikely; because the same reasons that might induce the French emperor to agree to it, viz. the diminution of his best troops—the war in Spain—the risings in different parts of Germany, and discontents elsewhere—the diversions to be made by the English at several points, and the tardiness of the Russians in advancing, it is supposed, would encourage the Austrians to continue the war.

Look not thou on the liquor when it sparkles, "when it giveth its color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright: at the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

"There is no prevailing evil that in such a degree debauches the morals, poisons the happiness and threatens to destroy the liberties of the people of this country, as the excessive and increasing use of ardent spirits. The extreme danger to the public, as well as the ruin to individuals and to their families resulting from this pestilent source, we intend to make the subject of frequent animadversion. In vain have the sages of this country formed republican institutions, in vain has the blood of its patriots and heroes been shed, and in vain may we boast, (indeed not long can we boast) of civil freedom, if the fatal practice of using ardent spirits as a common and daily beverage should continue and encrease. The duties on spirits and on wines imported to this country, amount to more than six millions of dollars a year—a sum more than sufficient to give a constant support to good schools for all the children of the country, between the ages of 7 and 14. You will observe that merely the DUTIES upon liquors imported into the United States amount yearly to the aforesaid sum exceeding six millions of dollars; and how enormous then must be the retail cost of these liquors? A large proportion of them it is granted, is exported from hence to other countries; but meanwhile vast quantities of various kinds of ardent spirits are distilled at home: and this kind of manufacture rapidly increases every year. There are according to the returns for the year 1800, more than twenty thousand stills in this country, and their number since has probably increased to ten thousand more. Our land, exceeding in one respect, the goodly land of old that flowed with milk and honey, flows with all the necessities of life, but most abundantly with rum, gin, brandy and whiskey; and those streams are eagerly absorbed by its infatuated and ever thirsty inhabitants, who "spend their money for that which is not bread, and their labor for that which satisfieth not." The sums which in this country are yearly lavished in the purchase and unnecessary use of ardent spirits, are of astonishing magnitude; they probably exceed the taxes for the support of our governments, added to a sum sufficient to support a decent school in every considerable village throughout the universe.

The immense waste of property is, however, the least part of the evil; the excessive use of ardent spirits becoming general, is an inlet to almost every evil that can infect and debase society. It weakens and poisons the body, impairs the intellect, curdles the temper and corrupts the whole mind; it makes churlish as well as silly husbands, unnatural fathers, rebellious sons, idle and seditious citizens; it degrades man, in some respects below the beasts that perish, but which never perish in the ignominious manner that many human creatures do—by intoxication.

OBSERVE.

The following MEDICINES are sold by ROBERT GRAY, Bookseller, in King-street—and by N. HINGSTON, Fairfax-street, Alexandria.

For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant Fevers,

Lee's Anti-bilious Pills,

Prepared by Richard Lee and Son.

Persons wishing to purchase this valuable medicine, are requested to be particular in enquiring for Lee's Anti-bilious Pills, put up in wooden boxes, having on the outside wrapper the signature of Richard Lee and Son. This is necessary, as there are other pills of the same name.

The operation of these highly esteemed pills is perfectly mild, and the experience of thousands has proved, they may be used in every situation in life without the least inconvenience or danger.

They are admirably adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions: to restore the appetite, produce a regular habit of the body, promote free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, so often attended with fatal consequences to the lives of thousands, and seldom, if ever, fail to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. Habitual costiveness, and its opposite, are removed by their wholesome influence, as also those diseases arising from them, headaches and sickness at the stomach.

It is almost unnecessary to state, that on the regular habit of the system, the health of mankind depends. To conduce to this all-important object, perhaps no medicine was ever more generally successful than these pills: they never do harm, and at least nine times out of ten afford relief to those who use them for the purposes for which they were intended.

With the most perfect confidence we recommend these pills to the public, and will only further add, that their operation is always pleasant, and that they leave nothing of that costiveness behind them too often attending medicines designed for similar purposes. Ten years have justified us in stating these facts, during which we have had a very extensive and constantly increasing sale for this truly valuable medicine.

To the Ladies,

Whose faces and complexion are injured with Freckles, Pimples, Black Worms, Tan or Ayburn, Ringworms, Prickly Heat, &c.

Lee's Persian Lotion,

A certain remedy for removing those disagreeable barriers to beauty, the proprietors with the most sacred regard to truth, and the credit of those medicines, assure the afflicted that all the different appearances above enumerated, are in a short time subdued by wetting the parts affected, with this pleasant fluid, according to the directions on each bottle.

Persons therefore who regard, either what is due to themselves, or the favor and opinion of the world, who can distinguish between the comeliness of health, and the deformity of disease, and who can weigh the advantages which belong to and are inseparable from an engaging appearance, to which perhaps they themselves, have by nature, the strongest claims, are seriously assured these advantages so far as belong to a good skin, are to be obtained by the use of his Lotion, however violently they may happen to be afflicted.

Instead of the studious and debilitating courses of medicines which patients went through formerly, and which perhaps they are still too frequently obliged to undergo, it is now found that the greatest number of these complaints are most certainly & speedily removed by the use of local remedies merely, than they ever were by a contrary course.

LEE'S LOTION

Is celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe as an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals (the basis of other lotions) and of unparalleled efficacy in preventing and removing blemishes in the face and skin, of every kind, it operates mildly without impeding that natural, insensible perspiration, which is so essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and clear, improving the complexion and restoring the bloom of youth. Sold at the Bookstore.

The article has on the outside wrapper, the signature of

RICHARD LEE & SON.

Persons not attending to the above, are liable to be imposed upon.

Notice.

I WISH to sell, the unexpired lease of 8 years, from the 10th day of December next, in the elegant and commodious HOTEL, I now occupy in Alexandria. This establishment is justly celebrated as affording the best accommodations on the continent, and to a man of attention and abilities in the line of his profession, cannot fail to yield a handsome fortune. The proximity of this property to the seat of government, being but about six miles from the capitol, over the Potomac Bridge, the growing importance of Alexandria, and the increase of the business of the house since the residence of the present occupant, all conspire to prove, that there is not a more eligible situation in the United States.

Attached to the tavern, is a well conducted coffee house, supported by a respectable subscription.

Together with an insurance office.

There are at present twenty four yearly boarders of the first respectability, in the hotel.

The whole house is elegantly furnished, and to a person who takes the lease, the greater part of the furniture will be sold on the most reasonable terms.

William Caton.

September 20.

PUBLIC SALE.

Under a decree of the honorable the circuit court of the district of Columbia, held at Alexandria, the subscribers will expose to public sale at the coffee-house on the 14th day of next month, on a credit of sixty and ninety days,

An Undivided moiety of a rent of £ 131 18

per annum,

Payable for ever, charged on a lot of ground situated at the intersection of Wolfe and Union-streets, and extending southwardly along the west side of Union street one hundred and fifteen feet, and westwardly along the south side of Wolfe street sixty two feet six inches. The payment of this rent is secured by valuable permanent improvements on the lot.

And if from the sale of the above rent, charge the sum required by the decree of the court cannot be raised—the subscribers will then proceed to sell, at the same place, and on the same credit—

One undivided seventh part of the reversion in fee,

Expectant on the death of Jane Roberdeau, widow of Daniel Roberdeau, deceased, in the following Lots, that is to say, one Lot on the east side of Water street between Wolfe and Wilke's streets, in front on Water-trect 51 feet 3 inches, in depth 125 feet, and bounded on the north by an alley 4 feet wide.—On this lot is erected a handsome and convenient 3 story brick dwelling house, with the usual cut-houses.—And two other lots adjoining each other on the west side of Union-st. between Wolfe and Wilke-streets, in front on Union-street forty one feet, in depth one hundred and twenty five feet.

McKenay, Elizabeth Muir, Polly Rhoades, Elizabeth Longden, Ann Snowden, Ann Devics, Mary Bogan, Mary Slade, Betsey Funnery, Mary Smith, Sarah G. Janney.

With pleasure I do return my sincere thanks to the above named ladies, and many others who have favored me with their certificates and custom in the purchase of Yarwood's Patent Washing Machine. I find them still in great demand in this place, but finding a very great scarcity of plank to answer the purpose of making them here, I shall in a few days or weeks commence making them to the southward. But will endeavor to supply others at a short notice after my return. I have a few now made on hand, which can be had if applied for soon.

DIRECTIONS HOW TO USE

Y R W O O D'S

Patent Washing Machine.

First fill the barrel half full of your finest cloths, than fill the bottom of the Reservoir with hot suds up to the side planks, turn the Crank backwards and forwards so as to make the cloths fall the hardest against the sides of the barrel for about twenty-five minutes, then use the same suds with a little more soap and hot water for the next finest cloths, until the suds are unfit for use, then second your cloths in the same way with boiling suds, after doing a little soap on the dirtiest parts of the cloths; then rinse them in the machine in warm or cold water.
